Q4 Autumn Begins

We trust you had a glorious Summer. We did not fully close our office for August as we were hopeful that we would be busy with follow ups from our Summer Conference and though the UK is fully in a recession compared to the 1990's with the highest inflation rate for 40 years, we remain open and hopeful.

The concerns are with the high energy costs and high share markets in the USA taking a tumble. We have weathered two past recessions in the UK, so are well prepared. We now have a new PM, though the British pound is down against the dollar and the euro. We are waiting here in the UK for support packages with regards to Energy and Business. I am sure the rest of the world is looking at us here in the UK from India to China to USA and G7 countries.

With most of us having enjoyed our summer holidays, being able to travel in 2022, we are now looking into settling down into Q4. This is a must read regarding SFO Future Returns: Single-Family Offices Turning More to Private Markets | Barron's \(barrons.com\)
